

EXAMINER CLOSES FOUR CHICAGO BANKS

BEGINS CLOSE EXAMINATION OF AFFAIRS OF LORIMER-MUNDAY INSTS.

Mild Run on La Salle Street Bank Causes Depletion of About a Million Dollars in Deposits in Past Three Weeks—Closing Will Not Affect Other Banks in the Chicago District.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Four state banks in Chicago, with deposits of $6,411,997 and reported cash means of $1,434,692 were taken charge of today by the state banking department, which closed the bank doors and began a close examination of the banks' affairs.

The four were the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, the Broadway State bank, the Illinois State bank and the Ashland-Twelfth State bank, known financial circles as the Lorimer-Munday trust and savings bank. The LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, the president of which is William Lorimer, ousted from the United States senate, was the main institution, the three others being outlying banks whose balances and reserves were carried to a great extent by the LaSalle street bank.

May Open Next Week. Chief Examiner Daniel Harkin, who took personal charge of the down town bank and sent deputies to the smaller banks, said late today that he expected to see the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank open for business next week. He said that he sent examiners to the smaller institutions as a precautionary measure. He insisted that there was no political phase in the closing of the banks.

An examination of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank by Harkin two months ago disclosed, he said, a quantity of what he regarded as slow assets. The bank officials are said by state officials to have pleaded for a little time in which to change that condition.

In the last three weeks, according to Examiner Harkin, the cashier of the bank, there has been what was termed a mild run on the bank, causing a depletion of about $1,000,000 in deposits.

William Lorimer, president, and C. B. Munday, vice president of the LaSalle street bank, refused to comment on the situation.

The closing of the four banks created a stir in banking circles and was commented on by men high in the financial world.

James B. Forgan, president of the First National bank and chairman of the clearing house committee, said: "The closing of the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank should not have the slightest effect upon any other banks in the Chicago district. The banks which have closed their doors are not associated with any other down town banks. The LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank is not a member of the clearing house association and has had none of the privileges of the clearing house."

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, said: "This development with reference to the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank and other banks in which former Senator Lorimer and his associates have been affiliated has nothing to do with the general banking situation and consequently none of the Chicago banks will be in any way affected by it."

Brady Authorized Action. State Auditor Brady in Springfield asserted that the action was authorized by him, if the chief examiner found conditions which warranted the action.

The state officials asserted that the financial condition of the LaSalle street bank had caused them to fear the possibility of a disastrous run. Chief Examiner Harkin said that he had found assets which he deemed slow and had decided to make a close examination.

In spite of the sanguine view of Examiner Harkin rumors of expected application for a receiver for the bank were current.

No detailed statement of the amount of assets and liabilities found by the examiner was made during the day.

The city funds on deposit in the four banks are:

Savings bank$450,000
Illinois State bank 116,000
Broadway State bank 116,000
Ashland-Twelfth State bank 100,000

All of the municipal deposits are amply protected by bonds. No county money is known to be on deposit. The sanitary district of Chicago had $75,000 in the La Salle street bank.

Munday Named in Recent Suits. Mr. Munday was named among other defendants in two recent court actions, the suit led by John H. Coyne against James J. Brady, state auditor, and an application for a receiver on May 22 by the minority stockholders of the Rosehall Cemetery Co.

In the Coyne suit it was alleged that Brady, Munday and C. E. Ward, secretary to Lorimer, had maliciously devised a scheme to oust Coyne as bank examiner. The allegation read in part:

"The La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, by C. B. Munday, vice president, made a $2,500 contribution to some unknown person who delivered the same to James J. Brady; that following Brady's election, the bank made a further contribution of $500 to the defendant, in consideration of which they were to be allowed to name certain em-

FORESTERS SEARCH MOUNTAINS FOR THREE MISSING BALLOONS

Carrier Pigeon Brings Message Telling of Disaster to Balloon Million Population Club—Two Others Are Unreported.

Portland, Oregon, June 12th.—One brief message telling of disaster to the balloon Million Population Club was the only word received up to late today from three of the balloons that started from here yesterday in a race under the auspices of the Aero Club of America. Of the fate of the Kansas City 111, and the Springfield there was an ominous silence. The other balloon in the race, the Uncle Sam, was wrecked in a thunderstorm last night.

This morning on the wings of a carrier pigeon was brought this laconic message from the Million Population Club:

"Balloon struck by lightning. Berry hurt. Come quick."

(Signed) "Morrison". The message was written by Geo. Y. Morrison probably while he was in a daze for he failed to give his location. His companion was Capt. John Berry of St. Louis, the pilot.

Every effort possible was put forth to find the Million Population Club and the other two unreported balloons. The United Forest Service rendered every effort in the Oregon Cascade Mountains to the search. It is believed that the Million Population went down somewhere in the dense forests on the west slope of the Cascades, southeast of here.

Morrison is a frontiersman from Lewiston, Idaho, and it is believed he will be able to find his way out of the mountains and bring along his injured companion unless he, too, is injured.

While the Springfield and Kansas City 111 may have passed safely through the storm and over the Cascade into a thinly settled region, it is feared that they met the same fate as the Million Population Club. The Kansas City 111 was piloted by John Watts of Kansas City and carried Roscoe Fawcett, sporting editor of a Portland paper as passenger. The Springfield was piloted by Roy Donaldson of Springfield, Ill., and carried Wilbur Henderson of Portland as passenger. Each balloon took carrier pigeons.

ARREST CHICAGO LAND AGENT ON CHARGE OF CONDUCTING LOTTERY

CHICAGO, June 12.—Mack K. Higginbottom, a land agent and promoter was arrested by federal officials tonight charged with conducting a lottery. A warrant also was issued for Frank A. Urwan, Higginbottom's partner in the Railroads Unimproved Land Association of Chicago. Higginbottom was released on bond and will have a hearing tomorrow.

The association advertised that it had 75,000 acres of land in Southern Missouri, according to James H. Wilkerson, United States district attorney. The advertisements promised that for $50 a person could register in the land drawing in which he might secure a 160, 80, 40, 20 or 10 acres of land or 100 shares of stock in a 3,000 acre fruit orchard the association planned to plant.

"You do not know in advance," the advertisement read, "nor neither do we, but you will receive either land or stock. You cannot lose."

Lincoln Payne, of Danville, Ill., was the complainant.

WEATHER CHANGE RELIEVES STEVENSON.

Chicago, June 12.—A change in the weather from the heat of the week brought much relief to Adlai E. Stevenson, former vice-president of the United States who is dangerously ill in a hospital here.

Physicians said that while there was no change in his general condition he had been able to take some nourishment for the first time in several days. He also listened with apparent enjoyment to the reading of messages from many of his friends.

REFUSE TO INDORSE FIGHT.

Davenport, Ia., June 12.—The Iowa State Federation of Labor, before adjourning at noon today, again refused to go on record as endorsing the fight made by the liquor interests against national prohibition.

The matter came up on a motion for reconsideration, was debated for about two hours, and then the drys won by a vote of 70 to 35.

MEDIATION DELEGATES SIGN FIRST PROTOCOL

BRIEF DOCUMENT MAKES NO MENTION OF HUERTA AS PRESIDENT

Provides for a Government to Be Constituted of a Character to Be Later Provided and Recognized by the United States at a Date to Be Fixed, Which Shall Act Until the Inauguration of a Constitutional President.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 12.—Delegates from the United States and the Huerta government today formally affixed their signatures, in the presence of the mediating representatives of Argentine, Brazil and Chile, to the first protocol of the series through which it is hoped to restore peace in Mexico.

The agreement, reached yesterday, in relation to the manner of transferring the executive power from Huerta to the new provisional government stood the acid test of reduction to writing.

It provides that a government is to be constituted in Mexico of a character to be later provided, which shall be recognized by the United States (date to be fixed), and which from that day forward shall exercise public functions until there shall be inaugurated a constitutional president. This plank in the peace plan was reduced to the form of a protocol after more than three weeks of discussion.

The brief protocol was significant of two things: it makes no mention of Gen. Huerta as the provisional president and it omits the method of transfer which the Mexican delegates and mediators suggested and to which the United States strenuously objected on the ground that its retention would be tantamount to recognition of the existing regime.

The Mexican plan provided that Huerta should name as minister of foreign affairs the man agreed upon here for provisional president.

The omission of reference to the method of succession and the statement that on a certain date a provisional government shall arise in Mexico to which the United States will accord recognition, satisfies the insistence of the American delegates that no steps should be taken that could be construed as recognition of Huerta. On the other hand, the Mexican delegates, while abandoning the constitutional form of succession as a part of protocol are satisfied because it does not specifically deny Huerta's right to name as minister of foreign affairs the man chosen here for provisional president.

The latter sees fit to accept, if the protocol is accepted, that the new provisional president, who is likely to be a constitutionalist, would take the executive power directly from Huerta, but he might do so from some other individual whom Huerta might leave in authority. As for the American delegates, they consider the method of transfer a closed incident. All parties are now concentrating on the second designation for provisional president, which will form another protocol.

It relates to the name of the provisional president and possibly will include his cabinet of four. The next conferences will be devoted entirely to a discussion of individuals.

Washington Officials Optimistic. Washington, June 12.—The Washington government was so optimistic today over the prospects for the success of mediation in the Mexican imbroglio that members of the cabinet fairly radiated jubilation when they left the White house after a conference on the subject with the president.

President Wilson broke his long silence on the subject by authorizing the declaration that the outlook for mediation was very encouraging. Secretary Bryan was so pleased over the outlook for peace that he laughed with newspaper men and his fellow cabinet members as they tarried outside the executive offices. The secretary of state and Secretary Daniels patted each other on the shoulder and agreed that the Mexican situation was looking very hopeful from the viewpoint of the United States.

Secretary Bryan verified the reports from Niagara Falls that the reports of delegates and representatives of the United States had reached an agreement upon the method by which the transmission of authority in Mexico should be conducted from Huerta to the proposed provisional government. The secretary declined, however, to reveal the details of the method proposed.

Gen. Carranza's latest note, forwarded early today by mail to Niagara Falls, announces his decision to send representatives to the mediation conference as the subject of most interest at the cabinet meeting in other official quarters. The White house learned early in the day of this decision on the part of Carranza, learning also that the constitutional chief, in reaching this decision, adhered to his attitude that an armistice in the campaign against Huerta should not be required.

Word from Niagara Falls that the mediators would not officially receive into the conference the Carranza delegates unless they should agree to an armistice, they no longer agree to an armistice of Washington government officials or their long hopes for ultimate peace. There were again made in official quarters references to the suggestion that Carranza's agents could be unofficially welcomed by the American and the Huerta delegates, to discuss plans of settlement upon which a way might be found for all to meet.

TO SEND LARGE SUPPLIES TO VERA CRUZ TO PREVENT FAMINE

Inhabitants Are Short of Food and Merchants Are Charging Enormous Prices—American Soldiers and Marines Being Properly Fed.

Washington, June 12.—News today of a threatened famine among the inhabitants of Vera Cruz and vicinity set the telegraph wires to work out of the department of commerce and tonight Secretary Redfield had received assurances that American merchants soon would have large supplies of food on the way to the Mexican port to be sold at moderate prices. These shipments will go in free of duty if officials here can arrange it.

The American soldiers and marines are being properly fed through the quartermaster's department, but the civilian population, now greatly swollen by the influx of refugees from all parts of central Mexico, is dependent on the retail merchants. The latter are charging enormous prices. War department officials today refused to discuss Gen. Funston's suggestion that the American lines be extended inland from Vera Cruz, but it is known that the subject is receiving careful consideration.

Activities Menacing to Federals. El Paso, Tex., June 12.—The important cities of Mazatlan, on the west coast, and Zacatecas in central Mexico, are being attacked and the investment of San Luis Potosi is becoming menacing to the federal defenders. The constitutionalists continue to make military progress, according to reports received here. Reports still are in circulation of an estrangement between Gen. Carranza and Gen. Villa.

Continue Attack on Zacatecas. Torreon, Mex., June 12.—Advices received today at the headquarters of the north said that Gen. Pinfila Natera was continuing his attack on Zacatecas and that fighting had been in progress intermittently for the last three days.

The brevity of the dispatches was thought here to indicate that the advance has not been rapid.

E. L. JOHNSON IS IOWA CANDIDATE FOR DIRECTOR OF RESERVE BANK

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 12.—E. L. Johnson of Waterloo, Iowa, was declared to be the Iowa candidate for a director of the Chicago federal reserve bank in Group 3, Class A, by a board of canvassers composed of officials of state banks here today.

The referendum vote of the national bankers of Iowa was in accordance with a resolution adopted at the meeting of the Iowa Bankers' association at Clinton last week. The canvassers announced the result as follows:

"E. L. Johnson, Waterloo, 139 votes; J. G. Rounds, Des Moines, 128 votes; A. F. Dawson, Davenport, 12; John McHugh, Sioux City, 3; W. P. Manley, Sioux City, 1; M. B. Hutchinson, Ottumwa, 1. Totals 284. Total number of national banks in Iowa, 340."

The canvassing board was composed of state bank officials in Des Moines. Simon Cassidy was chairman, the other members being E. H. Martin, D. H. McKee, and L. E. Stevenson.

ROOSEVELT GIVES OUT RONDON'S REPORT OF EXPLORATION TRIP

PARIS, June 12.—Before leaving Paris for London late tonight, Col. Theodore Roosevelt gave out a 2,000 word report by Col. Rondon, the Brazilian government's representative who went with Col. Roosevelt on the latter's exploration trip in South America. The report of Col. Rondon, an explorer of note, says that Lander (referring to Henry Savage Lander, the British explorer) did not cross a plain of land in Brazil or Peru that had not been explored, the greater part of it, many centuries ago.

The report of Col. Rondon which has just been translated from Portuguese, was sent to Col. Roosevelt on his request to Col. Rondon for information concerning Mr. Lander's expedition from Rio Janeiro to Lima, Peru, in 1910-12.

NAMES SHARP AMBASSADOR.

Washington, June 12.—President Wilson today chose Representative William Graves Sharp of Elvira, O., to be ambassador to France, and Mr. Sharp, a democrat, will succeed Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland, a former republican governor of Ohio, the last of the ambassadors holding over from the Taft administration.

Mr. Sharp is 55 years old, a lawyer by profession and later a manufacturer. The present session of congress is his third term.

RE-ELECT LEADING OFFICERS

Bay City, Mich., June 12.—All the leading officers of the Knights and Ladies of the Modern Maccabees now in session here were re-elected today without opposition.

later with the mediators and a protocol eventually signed by the representatives of the United States, Gen. Huerta and the constitutionalists.

As announced here today the commissioners for the constitutionalists will be Fernando Igle Sias Calderon, for many years prominent in Mexican affairs, formerly a minister in the cabinet of resident Diaz; Luis Cabrera, active in the constitutional ranks and recently returned from Europe, and Jose Vasconcelos, a young Mexican lawyer who has been prominent in the revolutionary movement for several years.

FEDERATION WILL FACE SUFFRAGE ISSUE TODAY

LITTLE OPPOSITION TO ENDORSING THE PRINCIPLE OF MOVEMENT

Fight Will Come When Effort is Made to Enlist Federation For This Cause Just as it Has Fought For Reform and Progress—Mrs. Catt Addresses Delegates.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Unless all signs fail, a convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will tomorrow, for the first time, face the subject of woman's suffrage for adoption or rejection.

There is little opposition to the adoption of a resolution of approving the principle of equal suffrage, but the fight will come when an effort is made to have the federation adopt a resolution making the fight to obtain the ballot for women a part of the federation's propaganda; to enlist it in the fight for this cause, just as it has always battled against disease and ignorance and for reform and progress.

The subject hitherto has died in committee because the constitution of the federation declares subjects of religion and politics to be taboo. In the numerous conferences of this convention, however, the great strides made by the suffragists in recent years were recognized and it was agreed that enlightenment on the subject might come properly under the heading of education. It is a further rule that the resolutions shall deal only with those subjects which have been discussed on the floor.

For this reason Miss Helen Barick Boswell of New York, referred in the briefest possible manner to the subject at the educational conference this afternoon. Although she scarcely more than mentioned its existence it was sufficient to form the entering wedge. Then a bit of emphasis was permitted when Mrs. John L. Ruhl, of West Virginia was introduced. She was on her feet less than a minute, but this was long enough for her to declare herself heart and soul for the movement and her assertion was greeted with prolonged applause.

It is believed that the resolutions committee tomorrow will report in favor merely of the principle of equal suffrage and this, it is said, will throw the fight to the floor, as there is a determined faction seeking to enlist the organization in an active campaign to the ballot.

The delegates evinced a sustained interest in the three sessions, which culminated tonight in an address by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New York, president of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance.

The suffragists were present in force and applauded the presentation of their views. Her presence on the program on the eve of the battle was regarded as a happy omen.

The convention during the day listened to a number of addresses.

MILITANTS ATTEMPT TO MAKE SPEECHES IN LONDON THEATRES

LONDON, June 12.—Militant suffragettes tonight made an organized descent on nearly a dozen west-end theatres in each case attempting to make speeches and showering leaflets from balconies upon the audiences. The leaflets drew attention to the torture of women by forcible feeding. The suffragettes were hounded out of the theatres by attendants and indignant auditors.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst is still a secret. She was not, as at first supposed, in the headquarters of the militants in Westminster Abbey on Thursday has not been found.

ILLINOIS MAN IN FINALS.

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—With the championship almost in sight, four players in the tournament of the Trans-Mississippi Golf association struggled for supremacy today. When the 36 holes were completed the contenders were reduced to representatives of the Lakewood Country club, Denver and the Arsenal Golf club, Rock Island, Ill. M. A. McLaughlin and John Deere Cady, respectively. These two men were winners in the semi-final matches and tomorrow will contest for the championship.

Both matches today brought out large galleries and both McLaughlin and Cady played marvellous games all the way. Cady defeated E. R. Morrison, Kansas City champion, 7 up and 5 to play, and McLaughlin beat S. E. Edmunds, St. Louis Country club, 6 up and 5 to play.

SISTERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 12.—For the second consecutive year Miss Mary Browne and her sister, Mrs. Robert Williams, of California, won the women's doubles championship of the United States by defeating Mrs. Edward Raymond of New York and Miss Edna Wilsey of Orange, N. J., in the final match of that section of the women's national lawn tennis tournament played here today. The score was 8-6, 6-2.

TO ATTEND CLASS REUNION.

Washington, June 12.—Leaving the cares of office behind him for a day, President Wilson will go to Princeton tomorrow to join with the other "old grads" of the class of '79 in celebrating their thirty-fifth graduation anniversary. The day will be devoted to Princeton celebrations, including a lunch and dinner of the president's class and the baseball game with Yale.

HYPNOTIST REFUSES TO AWAKEN BOY IMITATING BICYCLE RIDER

Arrest Rankles Griffith and He Refuses to Awaken His Work—Boy Spends Twenty-four Hours on His Back Up to Midnight Last Night.

Gary, Ind., June 12.—Arthur Tracy, an 18 year old youth, at midnight had spent twenty four hours on his back, his feet moving in imitation of a bicycle rider. Tonight the women's club of Gary, the police and a thousand or more indignant citizens gathered at the police station to try to stop Tracy's feat, while W. E. Griffiths, an itinerant hypnotist, said to be responsible for Tracy's activities is in the county jail refusing to undo his work.

At a public performance last night Griffith hypnotized Tracy, giving him the illusion that he was riding a bicycle. The spectators were so amazed that Griffith moved him, with his feet still pedalling to a public how window. At noon today the women's club complained to the police that Griffith was guilty of cruelty and the hypnotist was arrested. He was admitted to bail but the arrest rankled him and he refused to awaken Tracy. Under pressure of the club women Griffith's bondsman withdrew his bail and Griffith was returned to his cell. The spectators who went to the theatre to see Griffith tonight turned their attention to the police station, where Tracy, his feet still moving, was lying on a mattress.

Several physicians attempted to awaken Griffith's assistant but failed, and at midnight the hypnotist refused to awaken his aid until all charges against Griffith are dropped.

GOVERNMENT INCOME WILL EXCEED EXPENSES BY ABOUT $30,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Estimates by Secretary McAdoo tonight indicated that the government income for the fiscal year ending June 30th, will exceed ordinary expenses by about $30,000,000. That is about $10,000,000 less than last year's surplus. Income tax returns have fallen far below the original estimates and failed to offset the expected decrease in tariff receipts under the new law but the custom houses turn in about $21,000,000 more than it was figured they would.

Whatever surplus there is for the year will be absorbed by Panama canal payments, as it was last year. Secretary McAdoo estimates that this year's ordinary receipts would aggregate $733,000,000 and the total disbursements $703,000,000. Total receipts for the last fiscal year were $723,782,921 with ordinary disbursements of $683,699,692.

RIBOT MINISTRY IS DEFEATED IN THE CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES

PARIS, June 12.—Amid frantic applause by the members of the left and the extreme left in the chamber of deputies today the ministry of Alexandre Felix Ribot, which was formed only yesterday to succeed that of Gaston Doumergue was defeated in a vote on its declaration of policy (three years military service) and then given a vote of lack of confidence. Premier Ribot and his ministers immediately left the chamber to present their resignations to President Poincare.

Following the defeat of the government it was rumored in the corridors of the chamber of deputies that M. Viviani would be requested again to try to form a new ministry.

IMPEACHMENT CHARGES ARE BROUGHT AGAINST JUDGE DAYTON

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Impeachment charges were presented in the house today against Alston G. Dayton, United States district judge for the Northern District of Virginia and without objection, were referred to a judiciary committee for investigation. Representative Neely of West Virginia, presented the charges, accusing the jurist of "high crimes and misdemeanors".

The case grows out of the labor troubles in West Virginia. One of the allegations is that Judge Dayton used his office to the advantage of the coal operators.

QUET FOLLOWS RIOTS.

Rome, June 12.—Almost all of Italy was quiet tonight following the rioting which has been in progress since the recent declaration of a general strike. Demonstrations had virtually ceased and railway communication, except in a few instances was normal. Reports that a state of siege had been proclaimed were declined tonight. It was said that even in the districts where the gravest disorders occurred there had been no recourse to martial law.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, June 12.—For Illinois: Generally fair Saturday, Sunday unsettled, gentle to moderate north and northeast winds.

WORTHINGTON AND THOMAS ARE INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

CHICAGO, June 12.—John W. Worthington, head of the defunct American Banking association, and Harry E. Thomas, a promoter, were indicted by the federal grand jury today on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

The specific offense was described as obtaining $2,000 worth of certificates of deposit of the Central Savings bank of Waterloo, Ia. Both men are at liberty on bonds. Both were arrested on this charge several months. Worthington has been in court for three days testifying before a referee in bankruptcy, who sought to locate the assets of the American Banking association.

COOLER WEATHER SUCCEEDS HEAT.

Washington, June 12.—Withering heat that caused suffering and death in many cities of the central valleys during the first four days of the week, was succeeded today by cooler weather nearly everywhere except along the Atlantic coast from Boston southward, where relief is expected tomorrow.

Weather bureau officials tonight indicated that cooler weather would extend eastward tomorrow, with not much change in the west, although the mercury threatens to climb again Sunday.

INDUSTRIAL STRIKE SPREADS.

Pittsburgh, June 12.—The strike of the members of the Allegheny Congenial Industrial union, which began last Friday with the walkout of 10,000 employees of the Westinghouse plants, spread today to the plant of the Union Switch and Signal company at Swissvale. Between 1,000 and 1,400 employees of the company, one of the so-called Westinghouse industries, walked out at noon.

LONG TIME RESIDENT SUMMONED BY DEATH

Robert Palmer Passes Away at the Family Residence From Pneumonia—He and Wife Celebrated Golden Wedding Anniversary Last January.

Robert Palmer, a long time resident of Jacksonville, died Friday evening at 9:30 o'clock at the family residence, 1516 South West street. He had been in failing health for the past six months. Recently he contracted pneumonia, which his frail constitution could not withstand.

Mr. Palmer was born in Rockingham county, Virginia, Oct. 30, 1835, being in the 79th year of his age at death. He was the son of James Q. and Mary Rutledge Palmer. His parents moved to Fulton county, Ill., when he was a child and there he received his education.

Mr. Palmer had been in business in this city for many years, first in the butcher firm of Palmer & Leck and then in the marble business with Mr. Hunsinger. His father, James Q. Palmer, had also been a resident here for several years before Robert Palmer and wife left Fulton county residing in the house on East State street now occupied by Otto Speith.

Mr. Palmer was married to Miss Jennie Burr in Abingdon, Ill., Jan. 1, 1864 and last January they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. At that time a family dinner was held and many friends and neighbors gathered to extend congratulations. Mr. Palmer was a man highly regarded in the community and his passing away will be learned with much regret by his many neighbors and friends.

He is survived by the following children, besides his wife: Mrs. Edward L. Blackburn, Alamosa, Col.; Mrs. Jessie Willard, wife of Rev. Harry Willard of Perry, Ill.; Mrs. Winnifred Palmer Jones, residing at 1529 South Main street. Two children preceded their father in death, Mrs. James Stout of Wilson Gap, Tenn., who passed away in 1908, and Mrs. Charles E. Scott of Del Norte, Col., who died in 1904. He also leaves seven grandchildren and the following sisters: Mrs. Margaret Palmer Harris of New Philadelphia, Ill.; Mrs. John Russell, Des Moines, Ia.; Mrs. Harvey Koon of Onawa, Ill., and one brother, Rev. George Palmer, D. D., of Emporia, Fla. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Hundreds of pieces of summer dress goods at a saving of 5c to 50c per yard, today at FLORETH CO.

COMMENCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Farrell and Children and Mrs. C. A. Barnes arrived recently at Northampton, Mass., for the commencement events at Smith college where Miss Elson Barnes is one of the seniors. The automobile trip from Jacksonville, a distance of over 1,200 miles was made with but one tire puncture.

Commencement events at Smith began Wednesday and will continue through June 16th. Dr. Marion LeRoy Burton, president of Smith will preach the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow.

At 8:30 a. m., Monday the Alumnae parade will form by classes, each in a unique costume showing the class colors, and march across the campus. The Seniors, in white, each carrying an American Beauty rose, will follow, ushered by the Juniors, carrying the Ivy Chain. At the Library the Seniors will stop to plant the class Ivy and sing their Ivy Song. The more formal Ivy Day exercises in John M. Greene Hall will follow. The Ivy Day Oration will be given by Hannah H. White, 19-4, of Worcester, Mass., after the class president, Mary H. Tolman, of Worcester, Mass., has made a speech of welcome.

The graduation exercises will be held in John M. Green Hall Tuesday, June 16. Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D. D., of the Broadway Tabernacle, of New York City, will deliver the address, and Dr. Burton, will present the diplomas.

COURT UPHOLDS DANCING BAN.

Duquoin, Ill., June 12.—The circuit court of Gallatin county has sustained the action of County Superintendent of Schools J. B. Boswell, who recently revoked the certificate of Miss Oma Kinsell of Omaha on the grounds that she had been dancing. The county superintendent issued an order forbidding dancing among the teachers of the county and threatened to revoke the certificate of any teacher who danced. The court ruled that the action of Boswell "was not an undue exercise of his discretionary powers."

CARITAS LODGE! NOTICE!

The members of Caritas lodge No. 625 are requested to meet in the parlors of Northminster church on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock to attend the memorial services.

FRUIT CANNED FOR PASSAVANT HOSPITAL.

During the years past it has been the custom of a number of friends of Passavant hospital to can fruit for the hospital. The gift of fruit is one highly appreciated and as this is the time of the year when people are putting up fruit, any donations along this line would be most kindly accepted. The hospital has a great many empty jars for this purpose and would be glad to furnish them.

MAKING AND FEEDING OF SILAGE.

The Weekly News Letter to crop correspondents issued by the department of agriculture has the following article this week relative to "The Making and Feeding of Silage."

Silage during the last three decades has come into general use throughout the United States, especially in those regions where the dairy industry has reached its greatest development. Silage is universally recognized as a good and cheap feed for farm stock, and particularly so for cattle and sheep, are the observations made in Farmers' Bulletin 578.

Silage is the best and cheapest form in which a succulent feed can be provided for winter use, continues the bulletin. An acre of grain can be placed in the silo at a cost not exceeding that of shocking, husking, grinding and shredding. Crops can be put in the silo during weather that can not be used in making hay or curing fodder, which is an important consideration in some localities.

A given amount of corn in the form of silage will produce more milk than the same amount when shocked and dried. Good silage properly fed is all consumed, and in addition very palatable. Like other succulent feeds it has a beneficial effect upon the digestive organs, and some stock can be kept on a given area of land when it is the basis of the ration.

On account of the smaller cost for labor, silage can be used for supplementing pastures more economically than can soiling crops, unless only a small amount of supplementary feed is required. Converting the corn crop into silage clears the land sooner than if the corn crop is shocked and husked, and because of these advantages silage, in the general opinion of dairy farmers, has increased milk production per cow and has increased the profits per acre.

Corn. In all parts of the United States where the silo has come into general use the principal silage crop is corn. One reason for this is that ordinarily corn will produce more food material to the acre than any other crop which can be grown. It is more easily harvested and put into the silo than any of the hay crops, such as clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa.

Furthermore, corn makes an excellent quality of silage. The legumes, such as clover and alfalfa, are liable to rot unless special care is taken to pack the silage thoroughly and force the air out. The only objection which has been raised concerning corn silage is the fact that it contains insufficient protein fully to meet the requirements of animals to which it may be fed. The best variety of corn to plant is that which will mature and yield the largest amount of grain to the acre, since the grain is the most valuable part of the corn plant. The variety commonly raised in any particular locality for grain will also be the most satisfactory to grow for silage.

Cultivation and Yield.

In some sections it is a common practice to plant the corn a little thicker when raised for silage than for grain. Weeds should be kept out, or they will be cut with the corn and may impair the quality of the silage. The amount of silage that can be obtained from an acre of corn will vary from 4 to 20 tons or more. A 50 bushel per acre crop will yield about 8 to 12 tons of silage per acre, depending upon the amount of foliage and stalks that accompanies the ear. Southern varieties of corn as a rule carry a larger proportion of the plant in the form of stalk and leaves than do the northern grown varieties. Corn should be harvested for the silo at about the same time that it is harvested for fodder.

Sorghums.

Sorghums, both saccharine and nonsaccharine, are readily made into silage. On account of their superiority to corn as drought resisting crops they are more commonly grown in those regions of the west where the rainfall is too light or irregular for a good growth of corn. It is important that the sorghums be harvested at the proper stage of maturity if the best results are to be secured. A mixture of corn and sorghum has proved satisfactory in some localities where the rainfall was so variable as to make the corn crop uncertain.

Clover.

Clover can be used successfully as a silage crop yielding a palatable product high in protein, but it is preferable to make it into hay, or the silage made from clover, as from other legumes, has an objectionable odor, necessitating particular care in feeding to avoid tainting the milk. It does not pack so well as corn, so great care should be exercised in the tramping of the silage at the time of filling, and the depth of the silo should also receive particular attention. Clover should be chopped before siloing as a matter of convenience in feeding and also to secure more thorough packing, although it can be placed in the silo without chopping. Clover should be harvested when in full bloom and some of the first heads are dead.

Cowpeas, Alfalfa and Soy Beans.

Cowpeas, alfalfa and soy beans can be successfully made into silage by exercising the same precautions as with clover. They should be cut at the same time as for haymaking. However, it is ordinarily preferable, as with clover, to make them into hay rather than silage. The fermentations which take place in silage made of legumes cause a greater loss of nutritive material than with corn silage. Corn husks and pea vines from canning factories, beet pulp, and other by-products are also used in certain localities for filling the silo.

Corn for the silo can be cut either by hand or by machine. Hand cutting is practiced on farms where the amount of corn to be harvested is so small as to make the expense of purchasing a corn harvester too great to justify its use. Hand cutting is slow and laborious, and there are probably few localities now where the purchase of a harvester would not be a profitable investment.

There are on the market several makes of silage cutters that will give satisfaction. The capacity of the machine to be purchased is an important consideration which should not be overlooked. Many persons make the mistake of getting a cutter which is too small, thus making the operation of filling the silo very slow and interfering with the continuous employment of the entire force of men. It is better to get a machine large enough, so that every one will be able to keep busy all the time. The larger cutters are equipped with self feeders, a labor saving device which the smaller sizes lack.

The usual length of cutting varies from one-half to one inch. The latter is considered a little too long, since pieces of this length will neither pack closely in the silo nor be so completely consumed when fed as will the shorter lengths. On the other hand, the longer the pieces the more rapidly can the corn be run through the cutter.

In case the corn has become too dry or ripe before it is put into the silo, water should be added to supply the deficiency of moisture necessary to make the silage pack properly. Unless it is well packed the silage will "fire fang" or deteriorate through the growth of mold. Enough water should be added to restore the moisture content of the corn to what it would be if cut at the proper stage. The water may be added by running directly into the silo by means of a hose or by running directly through a blower. It is claimed that by running it into the blower the water is more thoroughly mixed with the cut corn.

NOTES FROM THE LABOR WORLD.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers has gained $26 new members in April.

Nearly a half million men are employed in industrial enterprises in Saxony.

A union movement has been started by girls employed in offices and stores in Toronto.

There were nearly 95,000 textile workers involved in strikes in Great Britain last year.

A justice of the New York supreme court has decided that it is illegal to make a man work on Sunday.

The International Brotherhood of Laundry Employees will hold its convention next August in Schenectady.

The city council of Regina, Sask., has decided to insert a union wage clause in all contracts let by the city.

The North Dakota Federation of Labor has arranged to hold its annual convention in Grand Forks, beginning June 6.

A measure is to be introduced in the dominion parliament next session to establish labor bureaus on the British model.

The 59-hour working week as applied to factories and mercantile establishments has gone into effect in Switzerland.

The International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers will hold its annual convention in Peoria in September.

PROVISIONS OF HOME RULE

BILL ARE EXPLAINED

Rev. W. J. Rainey Has Paper Which outlines Fully This Important Piece of Legislation.

A great deal of interest has of late been created in British affairs by the passage of the Home Rule bill. Rev. Wm. J. Rainey, pastor of Pisgah Presbyterian church, has left at the Journal office an outline of the bill from which some extracts are given.

The Irish parliament will consist of

The King,
The Irish senate,
The Irish house of commons.

The members to take the same oath of allegiance as taken by members of the United Kingdom, house of commons and the same qualifications and disqualifications exist.

Peers can be a member of either house but no one can be a member of both.

A man may be a member of the Irish parliament and of the Imperial parliament.

The election laws will be those for the United Kingdom, house of commons. The house of commons will consist of forty members and the house of 164, and there must be a general election each five years of the longest. There is nothing to prevent payment of members.

The Irish parliament will have power to make laws for the peace, order and government of Ireland with three limitations:

Prohibition in respect of matters not Irish.

Prohibition in respect of certain Irish matters, "the reserved services."

Restriction in treatment of certain matters.

It cannot pass laws in respect of the crown, peace or war, naval and military affairs, treaties and foreign affairs, dignities or titles of honor, treason, aliens, naturalization, and various other matters pertaining to the whole country.
It may deal with all Irish affairs except land purchase, old age pensions, national insurance, labor exchange, collection of taxes, royal Irish constabulary, various savings banks and friendly societies and public lands before the passing of the act.

The Irish parliament must not directly or indirectly establish or endow any religion or prohibit or restrict its free exercise or any kind of an advantage or disadvantage on account of religious belief, or religious or ecclesiastical status. It must not make religious belief or religious ceremony a condition of the validity of any marriage. It must not affect prejudicially the right of child to attend school receiving public money without attending religious instruction. It must not alter constitution of religious body without consent.

It must not divert cathedral or take property of religious bodies except for public works and upon payment of compensation. Laws relating to unlawful oaths and assemblies shall not apply to Freemasons.

A large part of the bill relates to taxes, manner of supporting the government and the like. The supreme power of the parliament of the United Kingdom is to remain unaffected and undiminished over all persons, matters and things in Ireland.

PROMISE OF PROSPEROUS YEAR ON FARMS STRENGTHENS OUTLOOK

Absence of Uniformity Continues to Characterize Trade Adverses But, Considered in a Broad Sense, Favorable Reports Predominate.

New York, June 12.—Dan's Review will say tomorrow: "Official promise of another prosperous year on the farms tends to strengthen confidence in the general business outlook. The government grain report this week made a splendid exhibit, and in the case of wheat, assurance is given of the greatest yield that this country has ever raised."

"In regard to the monetary situation much significance has attached to recent developments; gold is still being withdrawn from this center in substantial volume without exerting any material effect upon rates for accommodation."

"Absence of uniformity continues to characterize trade adverses, but, considered in a broad sense, favorable reports predominate."

"Failures this week are 294 against 259 last year; failures in Canada 33 against 39."

Bradstreet's Weekly Review.

Bradstreet will say tomorrow: "Glowing cereal crop reports and the beginning of the winter wheat harvest are the main-spring of the reports of better wholesale and retail buying in the central west, north west and southwest and what appears to be a ground swell in demand is in evidence at the larger centers, west and east."

"Warm weather over a wide area has stimulated business in retail lines, helped jobbers, and made for re-orders. Besides more interest is being displayed in fall requirements; demand for finished steel has expanded; collections save in the south are somewhat better; the winter wheat yield is of unparalleled proportions, the railroads are storing cars in the southwest in preparation for a record traffic in winter wheat; there are some complaints of difficulty in getting hands for the harvest and sales of this cereal for future export are heavy."

FROM THE YAZOO DELTA.

A letter from William Walter Moore, of Indianola, Miss., has this to say about the crop conditions there:

"I see by the papers that you all must be having as hot weather as we are, unless you have had relief from local showers. We are having very dry weather here and the gardens and corn are in bad shape. Cotton is doing fairly well. There was a good shower over on the place (Moorehead) last week and the cotton seems to be doing fine. As soon as we have a good soaking rain our cotton prospects will be very fine, and it looks like good prices this year."

NAME INCORRECTLY PRINTED
In announcing the approaching marriage of Rev. A. L. T. Ewert an error was made in the lady's name which was printed Erbin. It is Miss Etta Ervin who is to be the bride of the minister. The young lady spent the greater part of her life in this city and has a great many friends here who will remember her most pleasantly. Her brother, S. H. Ervin, conducted a grocery on East Morgan street for a number of years. His wife is a daughter of Mr. Ewert.

Joyful Anticipation of Motherhood

There is apt to be a latent apprehension of distress to mar the complete joy of expectation. But this is quite overcome by the advice of so many women to use "Mother's Friend." This is an external application designed to soothe the muscles and to thus relieve the pressure reacting on the nerves, that the natural strain upon the cords and ligaments is not accompanied by those nervous pains said to cause nausea, morning sickness and many local distresses. This splendid embrocation is known to a multitude of mothers.

They have used it during the period when they could realize the value of timely and helpful advice. That is why they recommend it.

Many people believe that those remedies which have stood the test of time, that have been put to every trial under the varying conditions of age, weight, general health, etc., may be safely relied upon. And judging by the fact that "Mother's Friend" has been in continual use since our grandmothers' earlier years and is known throughout the United States it may be easily inferred that it is something that women talk about and gladly recommend to prospective mothers.

"Mother's Friend" is prepared only in our own laboratory and is sold by druggists everywhere. Ask for a bottle to-day and write for a special book for expectant mothers. Address: Bradford Regulator Co., 507 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

It should be remembered that what is said of "Mother's Friend" is the thought expressed by the thousands of women who have successfully used it and recommended it through two generations.

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED

Scarcely any hair on head. Terrible itching. Also Bothered With Pimples and Blackheads on Face. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Both Troubles.

Greenwood, Ind.—"First my hair began to fall, then my scalp itched and burned when I became warm. I had pimples on my scalp; my hair was falling out gradually until I had scarcely any hair on my head. I couldn't keep the dandruff off at all. My hair was dry and lifeless and I lost rest at night from the terrible itching sensation. I would pull my hair off and scratch my head any place I happened to be.

"For several years I was bothered with pimples on my face. Some of them were hard red spots, some were full of matter, and many blackheads. I was always picking at them and caused them to be sore. They made my face look so badly I was ashamed to be seen.

"I tried washing my head with Cuticura Soap, dried without rinsing, then put the Cuticura Ointment on and rubbed it into the scalp. I applied the Cuticura Soap and Ointment the same each week until cured. Three months' use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment has made my face as smooth and clean as can be." (Signed) C. M. Hamilton, Sept. 24, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

INCOME TAX PAYMENTS WILL SOON BECOME DELINQUENT

Collector Pickering Has Sounded a Final Note of Warning—Neglect Will Be Expensive.

Have you paid your income tax to Uncle Sam? Scores of individuals and a dozen or so corporations in the thirty-eight counties comprising the Springfield collection district neglected to make their returns by March 1, the limit fixed by the income tax law when the return or schedule is required to be in the hands of Collector J. L. Pickering. The result of their negligence was a violation of the law, and they were compelled to pay heavy penalties or stand prosecution in the United States court.

How many will forget to pay the tax assessed against them?

"Many of those who deferred making their return until the last day were only a few hours late," remarks Collector John L. Pickering. "But the penalties were incurred and neither the collector in Springfield nor the commissioner in Washington is authorized to abate the penalties. In some cases the income tax assessed was insignificant, but the penalty heavy. I recall several instances where the tax assessed was less than ten cents, the 50 per cent penalty about 5 cents, and the taxpayer was glad to compromise $50 in compromise.

"A majority of the taxpayers in the eighth Illinois, the Springfield district," continued the collector, "have paid their assessments and received their receipts. They were wise. Good bankers are the wisest class with whom this office deals. Many of them file their annual return in the month of January and all of them before March 1. As a rule they pay the tax assessed within ten days after receiving notice of assessment. An astute banker takes no chances with delayed mails or a crowded internal revenue office during the last days for return or payment of tax. Individuals and small corporations can learn a valuable lesson from the example of their banks."

Volume of Mail Increasing.

The collector's office is receiving income tax payments at the rate of about 100 a day. The volume of mail is increasing and the collector expressed the belief that practically all income taxes would be collected long before the last day of grace expires.

In addition to the income tax, all brewers, wholesale and retail liquor dealers (including druggists who sell liquors) and wholesale and retail dealers in oleomargarine must pay a special tax assessed under the United States internal revenue law, and receive and post their special tax stamp (government license) before commencing business in July 1, 1914.

All manufacturers of cigars and tobacco who intend to continue business after July 1, 1914, must file the proper application and receive a collector's certificate on or before that date.

Your Uncle Sam will accept no excuses or apologies for tardiness.

ARE YOU GOING AWAY FOR THE SUMMER?

You will need the Jacksonville Journal and you can have it every day. If possible you will appreciate it even more highly than when you are in the city. It will be better than a long daily letter from your dearest friend at home. It will keep you in touch with Jacksonville, besides giving you, as always, all the news of all the earth.

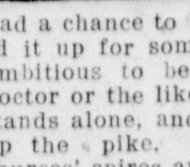

Call up the Circulation Department, either phone, 64. Or if convenient to you and to prevent any possible mistake in transmitting telephone message, just mail a post card to The Jacksonville Journal Co., giving both the old and new address, and the change will be promptly made.

Price of Journal to any postoffice in the United States (address changed as often as desired) is ten cents per week.

The Brides

By WALT MASON.

I see the blushing brides go by, all sweet and blooming, and nothing fairer greets the eye, however far a man may search. As never, to the church they draw the bliss they feel is all unfeigned, for they obey a holy law, and lead the life that God ordained. The old maids stand around outside, and think upon the yesterday; each had a chance to be a bride, and passed it up for some career. Each was ambitious to be known as a lawyer, doctor or the like, and dimly each stands alone, and sees the brides go up the pike. From "neath the church's spires and domes the brides go forth to normal lives, to make and manage happy homes and join the ranks of gracious wives. The old maids leave the wedding scene, with hearts that feel as though they'd burst; they fill their stoves with gasoline, and cook their meals of wieners and wurst. They chose the dress and left the gold, their lives are but a dreary blank; they have no eyes around to scold, no kids to cuddle or to spank. Their eyes are full of tears unshed, their hearts of griefs that ever gnaw; their hair is gray, their noses red, their temper like a cross cut saw. Imagine, then, how tough they feel, as by the church yard gate they stray, and hear the wedding music peal, and see the brides in brave array!

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

Automobile drivers had a varied experience when coming in from any distance as the rain went in streaks making some roads quite muddy for a while and then letting up and merely laying the dust. Some machines were well splattered.

J. A. Foster of Mason City made a trip to Jacksonville in his McFarland 6 car.

W. B. Evans of Connersville, Indiana, came to the city yesterday to visit David Estaque, local agent for the McFarland 6 car. Mr. Evans is connected with the factory which makes the car.

Joseph Bergschneider of the vicinity of Franklin came to the city yesterday in his fine McFarland 6 car.

J. A. Moss of Joy Prairie was a city visitor yesterday arriving in his Stoddard-Dayton car.

E. N. Long and mother, residents of Arenzville, visited the city yesterday, coming in a Spaulding car made in Grinnell, Iowa.

Thomas Bean and family were city visitors yesterday from Winchester, coming in their Ford car.

C. N. Priest, the Ford man, made a trip to C. C. Carter's near Neelyville yesterday taking Mrs. Biggs and daughters down for a visit and bringing Mrs. Carter back to the city.

Charles Ransom of the southeast part of the county was a city caller yesterday coming in his Mitchell car.

William Rexroat and friend rode to the city yesterday from Arcadia in Mr. Rexroat's International car.

GIVE SKETCH OF MR. MORTIMER

The Chicago Evening Post recently gave the accompanying write-up of William Mortimer together with a line sketch. Mr. Mortimer is one of the most successful cattle feeders in Morgan county.

"One of the substantial farmers of Morgan county, Illinois, is what might be termed an 'old-timer'; that is, he has been in Morgan county since 1868. When a boy he, together with two of his pals, left 'Old England,' the land of their birth, and came to Illinois. He came 'just to see the country,' and, seeing the future of this great state, resolved to make it his home. Starting as a farm hand, he now owns and farms 500 acres of fertile land, and is surrounded by a happy family, exceptional in a way, viz: wife and five children, consisting of one pair of twins (boy and girl), another pair of twins (two girls) and one girl. Mr. Mortimer is well known and enjoys the good will of all. He was on the Chicago market recently with five cars of steers to his favorite commission house, the National. Here's wishing him many more years of prosperity."

AN INTERESTING TOY.

J. W. Breckon has at the store of Breckon & Jenkinson a toy ship carved many years ago with a knife and simple tools by his devoted father, the late Rev. Vickerman Breckon. There is connected with it a skiff as a trailer such as are seen with crafts of that kind. The ship has two masts and sails just like a regular craft and Mr. Breckon says that when a boy he played with it in the water for many happy hours and now it brings to remembrance the affection of a saluted father whose useful life ended some years ago.

As the old gentleman's life was ebbing away and he saw the inevitable end not far away he said:

"Not a cloud doubt arise
To darken my skies,
Or hide for a moment
My Lord from my eyes."

I hereby announce myself a candidate for Assessor and Treasurer, subject to the Democratic primary, Sept. 9, 1914.

Thomas Irlam

ASSESSOR AND TREASURER.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for assessor and treasurer, subject to the Democratic primary, Sept. 9, 1914.

James L. McDonald.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the democratic nomination for Sheriff of Morgan county, subject to the primary election of September 9, 1914. Respectfully,

JAMES C. McFILLLEN.

AN EXPERT CLIMBER.

A good many people have shaken their heads incredulously when told that a dog climbed the eight feet fence at Nichols park but E. F. Johnson goes that story one better. He says when he was a boy his father had a sow which had been raised as a pet and while they did regularly take to teach her had tricks she would climb right over a six feet fence and not only that but would not drop heavily on the other side but climb partly down before letting go.

BURLINGTON WAY FOLDERS

H. C. Wilhite of Greenfield was in the city yesterday in the interests of the Burlington Way. The Burlington Way is president of the St. Louis-Benton town division and is a regularity over what has been accomplished. He has the telephone poles are all painted the whole length of the road and any one with an automobile may find his way the darkest night. He has also left at the Journal office a lot of folders pertaining to the way and containing a map of the whole distance and these will be given to any one who has use for them.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

Cards have been received announcing the wedding of Miss Beulah Cole of Pontiac, Michigan, to Maurice Smith, Jr., Wednesday, June 24th. Miss Cole has visited here and has a number of friends who will be pleased to hear of her marriage. She is an attractive and accomplished young lady and her father F. C. Cole, is a trusted passenger conductor of many years on the Grand Trunk railroad. She will have the good wishes of a great many friends here and elsewhere.

FARMERS CALLED ON TO USE LIMESTONE

Leading Agriculturists All Over the Country are Becoming Interested in the Subject.

All over the country the leading agriculturists are calling upon the farmers to use limestone.

At a great convention of 3,000 farmers at Knoxville, Tenn., Joseph Wing of Ohio, said some interesting things on the subject. Among other things, he said:

"I just came from the plains of Texas. There I found men paying $125 on acre for land and after getting it, having to pump all the water needed for crop growing from deep wells with very costly pumps.

"Then when they get crops, they are a thousand miles from a market. Here you are right at the market, it is here. Here you seldom need irrigation and have no expensive pump plants to keep up; the farmers here are immensely favored.

"Where the Texas farmer is rich is in his soil, which is a curious study. It is a brown loam, underlaid with red clay, underlaid with soft marl. Now marl is only unconsolidated limestone. Their soils are far richer in lime than soils of the east, that is the reason of their fertility in Texas. And yet I was called clear to west Texas to study some unproductive alfalfa fields and see if I could suggest the reason. In these fields of small, dwarfed alfalfa were spots of good, big alfalfa. A little digging revealed the reason. Where the spots exist have been prairie dog holes and these holes went down into the marl. It is the lime that the dogs brought and scattered around and that by plowing got mixed through the soil that made the rich spots.

"The world over it is the same story. Soils are rich about as they are filled with a carbonate of lime. I have found no exception to that rule. The cause of poor soils in East Tennessee is that the limestone is in large masses, instead of being in powdered fragments mixed through the soil. If in some manner those big rocks could be broken and pulverized, there would no longer be any need of barrenness of poor crop yields or crowded fields in East Tennessee.

"Happily that is what Director Morgan and Professor Mooers and all their helpers are teaching and are proving to the people. With limestone, these soils will grow alfalfa, clover and bluegrass. Your leading farmers are showing the way. There is Fox of Morristown; he is worth a million dollars to your state just for the magnificent demonstration that he has made. He took an old, worthless farm and made it produce double the best soils of Texas.

"I myself have, I am happy to say, been able to help. Up along the C. C. & O. railways put out among farmers about 450 tests of limestone and alfalfa. We have alfalfa now on the high mountains of the Appalachians, in the valleys and on the hillsides.

"Men seeing these results are beginning to use limestone largely and to grow alfalfa splendidly. Perhaps Tip Pepper's alfalfa near Knoxville is the best of any east of California. He has made it the grand success that it is with seven tons to the acre, just by free use of limestone, ground rather coarsely, and manure and phosphorus.

"But the special experiment, or demonstration, that I have in mind is one that we made up near Johnson City, on an old 'borrow pit' or place where the railway builders had taken away about eight feet of the top soil, leaving it as red as blood and absolutely barren. There was not a weed an inch high in that land. We limed it at the rate of eight tons to the acre of ground limestone, gave it acid phosphate, inoculation and sweet clover seed. We used not a spoonful of manure.

"You know this sweet clover is a poor sister to the alfalfa plant. Well, it caught, it grew, it is growing today beautifully over that once barren hillside and now we have sown the land to bluegrass. Sweet clover is a rich feed, good for hay or pasture, but it is a biennial plant and alfalfa perennial, but sweet clover will grow with no vegetable matter in the soil and alfalfa will not so well.

"That demonstration to me is significant. With ground limestone there need not be one washed, bare hillside. Every one can be limed and covered with this plant. Then can come on cattle and sheep and horses, for they will like sweet clover. On the richer lower lands alfalfa can grow, at once on the poorest land the more humble legume can grow and the capacity of the earth to carry cattle be much more than quadrupled.

A WAY OUT

A Resident of Jacksonville Shows the Way.

There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache.

Liniment and plasters may relieve it.

But they seldom reach the cause. Backache is caused to suspect the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys.

Read a case of it.

J. B. Seaver, blacksmith, 346 E. North street, Jacksonville, Ill., says:

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with fine results and I am pleased to recommend them. I had pains in the small of my back, especially when I tried to straighten, after stooping. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they stopped the pains. They also regulated the action of my kidneys."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Seaver had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The roads have announced a specially low rate round trip excursion to the Pacific coast good till June 18. E. J. Christopher, third trick operator at the Burlington, is taking a vacation.

T. S. Patterson, baggage agent at the Burlington station, has gone with his wife and son to Michigan. He expects to return in a week, but the others will remain some time longer.

Mr. Turner is acting third trick operator at the Burlington office in the absence of E. J. Christopher.

Lloyd Denney of Sorento is relieving Mr. Ehrem in the Beards-town offices. Mrs. Denney taking a place in the telegraph department and Mr. Ehrem going to the telephone shop.

D. C. Frederick, traveling superintendent of the C. P. & St. L. road, was in the city yesterday.

J. Diddot, roadmaster of the C. P. & St. L. road, was in the city yesterday looking over the changes and improvements in the line along Illinois avenue and elsewhere.

Mrs. A. E. Peterson, wife of the C. P. & St. L. agent of this city, is visiting friends in Little India.

O. F. Rouch, baggage agent at the C. P. & St. L. station, expects soon to go to Peoria to attend the wedding of his brother.

Business along the lines is rather quiet at present, freight and passenger trade being held up by warm weather and various causes.

At the Car Shops.

Engine No. 32 is in shape now and ready to go out as soon as her services are needed.

Engine No. 31 was sent in for some small repairs and it was expected that she would go out today.

Edgar McGinnis, machinist apprentice, had the misfortune to mash one of his fingers a day or two ago. Dan Mahoney, blacksmith helper, is expected back today from Fort Worth, Kan., accompanied by his sister, who has been teaching out in that part of the country.

Leslie Hill, blacksmith helper, has been kept at home part of the time by the serious illness of his wife.

Frank Mattox has been hired as helper in the blacksmith department.

James Dickens has a hot job at all times and a short time since had one that was hotter than usual and the heat overcame him so that he was prostrated for awhile. Mr. Sanner, the foreman, took prompt measures and soon had Mr. Dickens all right.

Motor 104, pulling special car No. 90, with Vice President and General Manager Hurst and Superintendent of Motive Power C. S. Branch, was here Thursday. The officials spent some time looking over matters in general.

In various parts of the shops are bulletins bearing in large letters the words, "Safety first; avoid accidents; caution others."

Combination car No. 34 and coach No. 46 have gone out of the carpenter and paint shop shining like the sun in their new dress and general overhauling. They are indeed fine and a credit to all who had a part in their renovation.

Frank Barbee has been added to the labor gang.

Edgar Davis, helper in the machine shop, has resigned.

W. L. Tisdale of the labor gang has resigned.

Engine No. 60 has been brought in for general repairs and a complete overhauling.

SPECULATIVE CONDITION FAVORS TRADERS ON LONG SIDE OF STOCKS

In Spite of Slackness of Demand
Market Now is Upward—Average
Change is Small.

New York, June 12.—Speculative conditions today favored traders on the long side of the stock market.
Operations were on the same restricted scale as heretofore but in spite of the slackness of demand the market moved upward.

Quiet strength was apparent in almost every quarter. A few shares, such as the Harrisons, Steel and Canadian Pacific moved up a point or more. The average change, however, was small, and even the moderate gains at the day's high prices were cut down when the list closed off in the closing hour.

The street was as indifferent as ever to the extraordinary rapid movement of gold out of the country.
The amount engaged today was two million dollars bringing up the week's total to nearly twenty million dollars. Indications were that the week's gold exports would result in a large cash loss by the banks. While the banks continued to gain from the interior, these receipts were more than offset by the outflow and known currency movements of the week pointed to a cash shrinkage of nine million dollars.

American stocks were dull in London but foreign representatives took a position on the buying side here.
London was credited with taking ten thousand shares.

Agricultural News Valuable To Farmers

TRUCK GARDENERS IN COOK COUNTY

LARGE MAJORITY WORK AS GRANDFATHER DID.

Very Few Apply Science to Their Business—Over Five Thousand Engaged in Truck Farming Around Chicago.

(By August Geweke, Des Plaines). We have over 5,000 truck gardeners around Chicago, in Cook county, and they do their business in various ways. We have very few that apply much science to their business. They work along in grandfather's ways, improving a little as they go along, or some of the gardeners have advanced in their business and the others see that they make money by specializing some crop and run way ahead of the game, then some of these gardeners work about five or ten years behind the others. That is the general way of the truck gardeners.

The original truck gardeners are mostly in Chicago, and about a mile or two outside of the present city limits, in the town of Jefferson. Those people work very hard, work from 5 to 15 acres of land and those that do not own their land pay from $5 to $10 per acre. Those that own their land pay $7 to $15 taxes in the city. Those outside pay from $1.50 to $2.00 taxes.

Some large growers on the South Side plant as much as 40 to 50 acres of asparagus, 50 to 60 of onion sets and sugar beets and rotate these three crops and make a paying business out of it. The way they keep up the plant food is by heavy manuring. They are close to the stock yards and get manure very cheap. These growers I spoke of generally pick up the best land outside the city limits and have their land tilled.

When you come to the North Side we find some gardeners small growers who grow as high as 30 to 40 varieties. They employ labor, women and children from the city, pay about $1.00 a day, some $1.50 a day. They have mostly sandy soil on the hills and some land in low ground. Northwest of Chicago the gardeners have a kind of sticky soil, some of it a little sandy and it is very fertile soil that holds the mixture well. They haul in 40 to 60 tons of manure per acre, being right near the city. They plant all kinds of crops, 95 per cent or more know very little about the scientific side of gardening; they just grow on because they always have and their neighbors always did. They work very hard, haul their stuff to market and spend sometimes $50 for labor on an acre to keep the weeds off, yet in the fall when you see their fields from a distance they have more weeds on than crop, they have weeds that grow 4, 5 or 6 feet high. In the winter time they haul on manure and they save all the refuse from the land and plow it all under in the spring; but it is a lot of trouble to take care of the weed seed. You can see how troublesome it is to make a living and make a little money. The garden business is always considered the most troublesome of any business in the country.

Then we go a little farther out, from 3 to 10 miles outside the city limits, or 13 to 18 miles from the center, for the city of Chicago is a very large city and we have to travel 10 or 12 miles in the city before we get to the market. Some of the best growers used to be in the city 10 or 20 years ago, some of them bought land, tilled the land, used to do heavy manuring and plant all the varieties, but those people most of them made money, because most of the renters that have rented from 10 to 12 years buy a farm and pay it off in 10 to 12 years, they made enough to pay for a farm that is worth in the neighborhood of $20,000. The best gardeners are those that moved out of the city when they were crowded by city conditions. Very few of them consider soil fertility from the scientific standpoint, but they manure heavily and take care of their lands pretty well, they clean up well. They raise feed for their horses, raise corn and oats sufficient for the needs of their teams, keep from 12 to 5 or 6 heavy horses and their farms contain from 20 to 60 acres. They grow sweet corn, potatoes, pickles, onions and onion sets. About half of them grow almost anything that is on the table of exhibits there and a great many other varieties. But it is a very troublesome job to take care of so many varieties and it is on account of the drained land and the manure available that will make it possible to exist. The growers have a large family and depend upon them, they are all good workers and all earn money and each one of them can do as much as a man and a half or two men of the hired men. When there are five or six or seven in the family and they all work and you add that together the year around, in time, say 10 to 15 years, it will pretty nearly pay for the farm.

SAFE LOADS FOR IRON CHAINS

Table Showing Tests of Chain Links Made by Engineering Experiment Station at Sate University.

(By H. F. Moore, Engineering Experiment Station, University of Ill.) Chains such as are used in farm work, contracting work, and general hauling and teaming are usually made of wrought iron or very soft steel. Each link is welded, and the strength of the chain is somewhat reduced on account of the weld, as a welded joint in iron is practically always weaker than solid metal. The curved ends of the links also act to reduce the strength of the chain. The following table of loads which a single strand of ordinary iron chain can pull with safety is based on tests of chain links made in the engineering experiment station of the University of Illinois by G. A. Goodenough and L. E. Moore. A full account of these tests and the mathematical theory of the strength of chains is given in Bulletin No. 18, of the engineering experiment station. It is supposed, of course, that the links of the chain are not unusually broad.

Diameter of Rod from which chain is made	Pull which chain can safely exert.
Inches	Pounds
1-4	175
1-4	310
5-16	490
3-8	705
7-16	960
1-2	1250
9-16	1580
5-8	1960
11-16	2360

To obtain this for any chain measure the diameter of the one side of a link with a pair of calipers.

Loads somewhat greater than those given in the table will not at first application break the chain, but if greater pulls are exerted there is danger that the links will become permanently stretched, and that small flaws will be gradually opened up and some day the chain will suddenly fail.

Special "crane chain" is sold, which is made of stronger material than ordinary iron, and which is carefully tested before being sent out by the makers. Such special chain is much more costly than ordinary chain and is rarely used for general work. It should be remembered also that a pull applied suddenly is about twice as disastrous to a chain as one applied gradually. If a chain is to exert a sudden pull (as for example when used to jerk a stump out of the ground) about half the above values should be used.

MINNESOTA WILL NAME CANDIDATES.

Campaign Has Developed In Interest During Recent Weeks.

St. Paul, Minn., June 12.—What promised at first to be a rather tame campaign for state and other offices in Minnesota has developed into some exceedingly spirited contests with the near approach of the date for the general primaries. The primaries will be held next Tuesday, when all parties will make their selections for all state officers, representatives in congress, associate justices of the state supreme court, members of the legislature and numerous county officers. Candidates successful at the primaries will follow up the campaign to the general election in November.

The Republican party is the only one to have candidates this year for every state office. The Democrats have candidates for all places on the state ticket with the exception of clerk of the supreme court. Progressives, Prohibitionists and Socialists have candidates for all the principal offices.

Much public interest centers in the fight for the head of the Republican ticket. Governor Adolph O. Eberhart is a candidate for nomination for a third term. His chief opponent for the Republican nomination is William Lee of Long Prairie. A third candidate is E. L. Raab of Duluth, but it is not believed he will cut much of a figure in the race.

Governor Eberhart is backed by the so-called state organization, whose opponents accuse of receiving the support of the brewery and liquor interests and the public service corporations. It is the general understanding among politicians of all parties that in the event of his reelection this fall Governor Eberhart will be a candidate to succeed Moses E. Clapp in the United States senate in 1916.

The anti-organization Republicans are out to defeat Eberhart and put a quietus to his senatorial aspirations. Two years ago the Eberhart opposition undertook to accomplish the same thing, but were at a disadvantage because their vote was split among five candidates. This year the situation is entirely different. Foreseeing the disadvantage of a plurality of candidates, the anti-organization forces held a convention in March for "elimination" purposes. At this convention William E. Lee was unanimously chosen as the standard bearer in the fight against Eberhart.

THE FRIDAY RAINFALL.

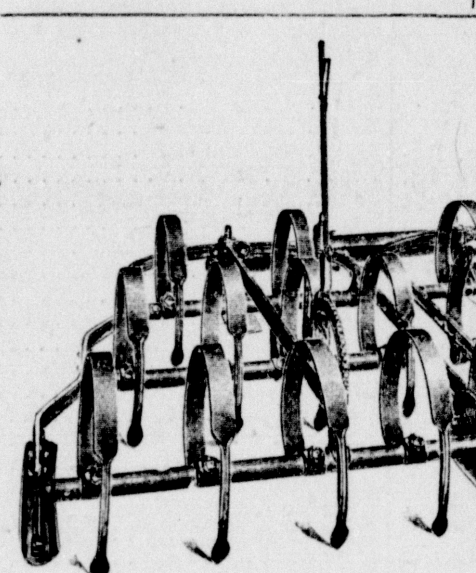

The rain of Friday morning extended as far south as White Hall, as T. H. Buckthorpe, who was in that city, found the streets muddy. A few miles north of Jacksonville however, but little rain fell while a short distance east there was a greater downpour. The limit on the west was near the eastern boundary of Scott county.

TELLS HOW TO GROW ALFALFA

SOME SYSTEM OF CULTIVATION IS NECESSARY.

Eradication of Weeds and Conservation of Moisture Plays an Important Part to Be Successful in Producing Large Crops.

(By H. E. Crouch, Dairy Farm, University of Illinois). The dairy department of the University of Illinois has been growing alfalfa for the past twelve years. During this time experience has made it evident that some system of cultivation is necessary in order to successfully maintain a stand, for with alfalfa just as with other crops, the eradication of weeds and the conservation of moisture plays an important part and in alfalfa cultivation these results must be obtained with as little injury to the plants as possible.

ALFALFA HARROW.
Recommended by author of accompanying article.

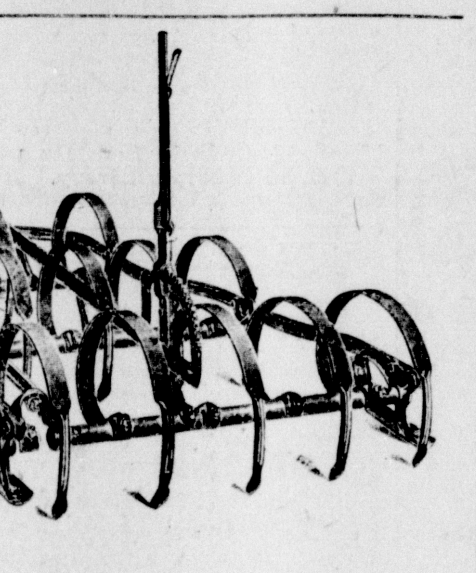

In the first attempts to grow alfalfa here, the advice of the western growers was followed and the common disc used to cultivate the crop. This it was necessary to set at "full disc" to stir the ground sufficiently. When set at this angle, instead of splitting the crowns it cut them off entirely or seriously mutilated them. Setting the disc at a wider angle and following with a spike tooth harrow, heavily weighted down, was tried. This was not only costly, but did not accomplish much in the way of loosening up the soil or tearing out the weeds. Under certain conditions of soil and climate, the disc is undoubtedly of great value in cultivation, but it is absolutely certain that it is not successful under conditions obtained in this locality.

The alfalfa disc, which is built similar to an ordinary disc, except that it has a series of spikes arranged like the spokes in a wheel in place of the disc, was given a thorough trial. This tool is somewhat work than the ordinary spring tooth harrow as it has stronger teeth, the points of which are made narrow so as to enable them to penetrate the ground more easily and yet avoid injury to the alfalfa plants. When in operation the teeth are vibrating continuously and this tends to shake the dirt from the roots of the weeds the year out. As the teeth dig when it meets an obstruction like an alfalfa root, there is comparatively little injury done to the established plants by this tool. It does, however, tear out a good many weak plants and, of course, bruises every one that it hits, but does no mutilate them like the common or alfalfa disc. On the whole it comes nearest to being the ideal alfalfa cultivator that has been tried here.

The cultivation of alfalfa would be greatly facilitated if it could be sown in drills, and harrow constructed with teeth so arranged that they would follow the drills. It is the tendency of the spring tooth harrow to follow the line of least resistance and I think it would follow the drill marks very readily if the teeth were spaced like the drill teeth or discs.

The practice here has been to cultivate after each crop and early in the spring when the best job can be done, as the ground is soft, the weather cool and there is less other work waiting. Sometimes the ground stays wet in the spring until the alfalfa is large enough to be injured by cultivation. When this is the case, it is better of course to cultivate after cutting. When the ground is hard and dry is a good time to kill weeds, but it is doubtful if it is worth while to cultivate alfalfa under these conditions, as the weeds will not grow much anyway, a larger portion of the alfalfa plants are injured and very little good is done in the way of conserving moisture. Cultivate when the alfalfa needs it and when the best job can be done at the least cost. Use the tool that will tear out the most weeds and loosen up the ground most thoroughly with the least injury to the alfalfa and do not cultivate until the crop is old enough to have a well established root system. It is usually safe to begin cultivating the second year after seeding.

ALFALFA DISC.
Preferred by some, though not by the author of the article.

METHODS USED FOR GROWING PER LAMB

VARIOUS RULES LAID DOWN BY W. E. COFFEY.

Should Be Supplied With Succulent Feed and Given Ration Rich in Protein—Ewes Should Have Clean and Wholesome Feed.

(By W. E. Coffey, Sheep Husbandry, University of Illinois).

In an article last week discussing the method of feeding lambs through their dams, we stated a few rules, which for the sake of clearness we repeat.

Feed the ewes liberally with clean, wholesome feed.

Do not make abnormal changes in the nature of their ration. The nature of the ration just before lambing should be similar to what it is desired to feed shortly after lambing.

Finish a like variety you can, but understand variety is a few different feeds in the ration rather than changing the ration often.

Give a ration fairly rich in protein. Supply succulent feed, if possible. Be sure salt and good water are available.

There is now to the direct method of feeding. It is to say that they should be fed grain as soon as they will eat it, and they will begin to nibble at feed when 10 to 15 days old. The first all the grain feeds should be ground, but after the lambs are 5 or 6 weeks old grinding is unnecessary.

A good grain mixture for lambs just beginning to eat is ground corn 1 part, crushed oats 1 part, linseed oil meal 1 part, and wheat bran 2 parts by weight. The wheat bran is very essential in this mixture in that being somewhat like roughage adds bulk and hence aids in developing the capacity of the lambs. The hulls from the oats will serve the same purpose. Many people have successfully raised lambs without the use of bran, but it is safe to assume that these persons have used such feeds as clover or alfalfa under the very best quality. In fact, even though bran is available, some first class leguminous hay should be placed where the lambs can get to it.

Cleanliness should be the motto of every sheep feeder, but double emphasis should be placed on this motto by the caretaker of young lambs. Every day the troughs and racks should be carefully cleaned and in case they become noticeably soiled, it is good policy to scrub them with lime water. The lime in the water seems to make the odor about the troughs pleasant to the lambs. Any surplus feed taken from the troughs and racks in the creep, which should always be provided for the lambs, can be fed to the ewes.

After lambs learn to eat they increase rapidly in their power to consume feed. Whether or not they should be given all they want depends upon what purpose they are being prepared for. If they are to be marketed as fat lambs, which is the assumption made concerning lambs in the commercial flock, they should be liberally fed with grain until they are of marketable weight and condition. If all of them are to be marketed, a large part of the grain ration should be corn, but if a number of the ewe lambs are to be retained for breeding purposes, not more than half of the grain mixture should be corn, the other half consisting of oats and possibly bran and oil meal.

In most cases, owners of lambs will find it advantageous to set apart at least an acre of two for some forage crop so that in the event there is a shortage of pasture there will be a green crop to supplement it. Rape is one of the best known forage crops for sheep and lambs, and since it is hardy, it is suitable for sowing early in the spring. However, those who grow rape should remember that it is a luxuriant grower and peace adapted to a fertile soil and a plentiful supply of moisture. If it is grown in unfertilized, poor soil, it is almost sure to prove a disappointment and a financial loss. Sheep and lambs should not be turned on rape until it has attained a growth of six or eight inches because it produces so much more feed if allowed to develop a great deal of leaf surface. Oats and Canadian peas sown together make a good green feed for ewes and lambs, but it is better suited for selling purposes than for grazing.

We have already emphasized the fact that the secret of successful and profitable lamb growing consists chiefly in being able to keep the lambs growing from the start. A well fed lamb early develops what shepherds call "baby fat." So long as a lamb possesses its "baby fat" it presents a full, well rounded outline which signifies the bloom and finish characteristic of a good market lamb. It should be possible to retain the "baby fat" until weaning time and, as a rule, that is the best time to market properly grown lambs in the corn belt.

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN THE SPEAKER.

Port Deposit, A. D. Jun 12.—Class day exercises at the Tome school were held this morning and were followed in the afternoon by the graduating exercises and the presentation of diplomas. The address to the graduating class was delivered by George E. Chamberlain, United States senator from Oregon.

DAIRY FARMERS NOT GETTING PROFITS THEY SHOULD

In Raising Cows and Great Waste in Raising Crops Some of Reasons For Poor Results.

"The investigations of the department of dairy husbandry during the past dozen years show plainly that the dairy farmers are not getting the profits they should and could get for the investment of their time and money," said Prof. W. J. Fraser of the University of Illinois, to 3,000 farmers at Knoxville, Tenn., two weeks ago. "There are several seasons for the poor results so frequently obtained. One is inefficient cows, another is the great waste in raising crops that do not yield anything like the maximum amount of digestible nutrients per acre. This is especially true in regard to the protein contained in the crops commonly raised on the dairy farm and so essential in the ration for dairy cows. For example, an acre of timothy hay does not contain more than one-tenth as much digestible protein as a acre of alfalfa hay. Notwithstanding this fact, timothy hay is still extensively grown on many dairy farms and fed to dairy cows."

Conditions Found of Dairy Sections. A few examples may help to bring out the conditions existing in the dairy sections of Illinois. Not long ago the writer visited a large dairy farm in the Elgin district, where the tenant had been on the farm for 14 years without sowing clover or other legume seed during this time. Just across the road was a large dairy farm on which ten acres of clover were grown. In March this man still had the clover hay in his barn and was inquiring for a market where he might dispose of it, as he said he had so much corn stover he could not feed it out before time to turn the cows to pasture. He made a gross mistake in not feeding this legume hay, which would have taken the place of much of the high priced bran which he had been buying in large quantities all winter in an attempt to balance the ration for his dairy herd.

Feeding Value of Silage. Succulence—in feeding cattle it is quite important that the ration include some succulent material, such as fresh grass, root crops, or silage. A feed containing a large amount of water in the form of natural plant juices is not only more easily digested but is also more palatable and (besides, serves the useful purpose of keeping the whole system of the animal in good condition. A silage fed animal is rarely troubled with constipation or other digestive disturbances, the coat is noticeably sleek and soft, and the skin is soft and pliable. It is a well known fact that a cow usually reaches her maximum production when she has access to a good pasture. The best and cheapest substitute for fresh pasture grass during the fall and winter is silage.

Palatability—No rough feed is more palatable than good corn silage. Sometimes, however, a cow will not eat silage readily until she has acquired a taste for it; this may require several days. But silage is not peculiar in this respect, for it has been observed that range horses or cattle shipped from the corn belt refuse the corn the first time it is offered them. The quality of palatability is of great importance, as it induces a large consumption and stimulates the secretion of digestive juices.

Silage for Dairy Cattle. Silage has been found to be particularly well adapted as a feed for dairy cows and as a consequence silos are more numerous upon farms devoted to dairying than upon any other kind of farms. In many sections silage has come to be the dairy farmer's main reliance for cow feed in winter.—U. S. Farmer's Bulletin No. 578.

Doctor Galloway to Cornell. Dr. B. T. Galloway, assistant secretary of agriculture, has been chosen as dean of agriculture at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y. This place was made vacant by the resignation of Dr. L. H. Bailey some time since. Dr. Galloway is a worthy successor to Dr. Bailey. He has been in the department of agriculture for 27 years.—Wallaces' Farmer.

Organize a Testing Association. Fifteen milk producers of Jackson county, Mo., have organized themselves into the Jackson Cow Testing association. E. A. Keeney, farm adviser for that county and P. M. Brandt of the dairy department of the Missouri agricultural college, helped to create an interest in the work and will assist the organization. An official tester will be employed, and he will keep records both of milk produced and feed consumed for each cow of each member.

Losses of Fertility on Vegetable Growing. With the large amounts of fertility used in vegetable growing it might be concluded that the soil would soon become very rich and would at least require less attention after once being built up to a highly productive basis. The losses of fertility from vegetable soils, however, are much greater than would ordinarily be supposed. Losses occur through crop removals, by drainage and leaching and by oxidation of the nitrogen and organic matter.

A Bit of Rhyme. My neighbor's horrid little dog Has bit my children twice, I told my neighbor that his dog Was not one small bit nice.

Pigs in clover is all right, but it isn't necessary to grow the clover in the front yard.

Mis' Hammer collapsed on the washboard the other day. The loss of labor was almost equal to the price of a washin' machine.

SOIL FERTILITY FOR VEGETABLE GROWING

CONSIDERABLE DIFFERENCE IN REFERENCE TO APPLICATION.

Vegetable Growing a Different Type of Agriculture than General Farming—Land Producing Good Farm Crops Prove Reverse for Vegetables.

(By C. E. Durst, Associate in Olericulture, University of Illinois).

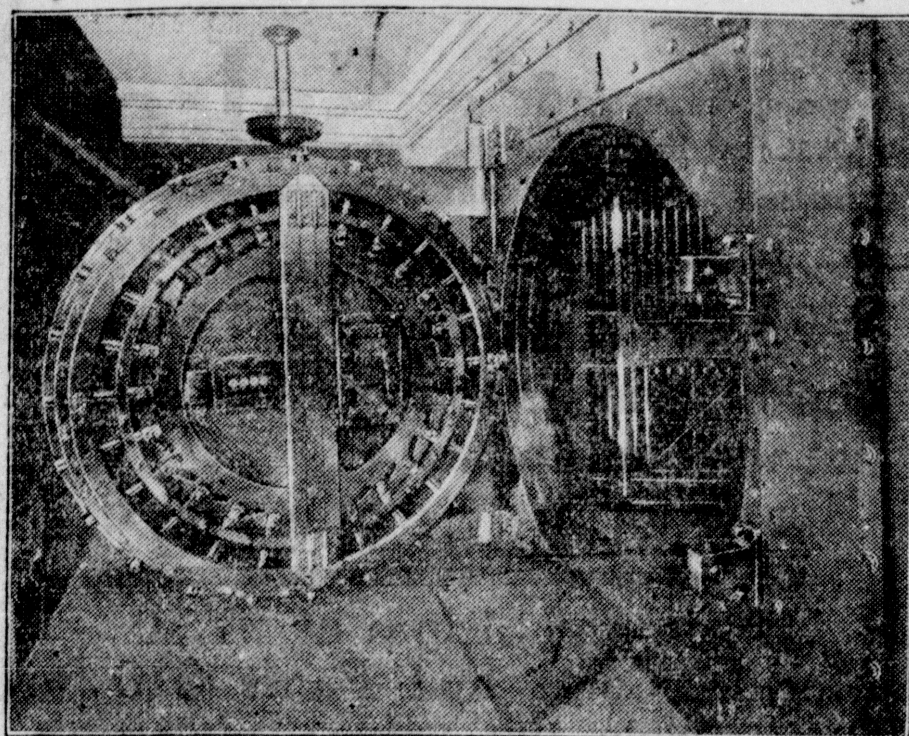

While the general principles underlying the fertilizing of farm and vegetable crops, are, of course, the same, there is considerable difference with reference to the specific manner and degree of their application to the two classes of crops. In other words, looking at the matter from a practical point of view, soil fertility is one thing from a general farmer's standpoint; it is quite a different thing from the vegetable grower's standpoint. For instance, the most amateurish gardener knows only too well that land capable of producing very admirable farm crops will usually produce only mediocre vegetable crops. We have in Illinois plenty of land capable of producing plenty of land capable of producing 100 to 100 bushels of corn or 40 to 50 bushels of wheat per acre during a favorable season, but plant this land in cabbage or onions and what will be the result? It will, as a rule, bear only fair crops of these vegetables. The best general farming lands needs considerable building up before it will grow vegetables well, and generally speaking, three or four years of persistent effort are required to accomplish the result. Such a state of affairs may appear strange but it is the actual occurrence in practice.

Vegetable growing, to a certain extent at least, is a different type of agriculture than general farming. Where the business is conducted on a very intensive basis, the land is cropped with tilled crops practically all the time during the growing season. There is no "sowing down" as in general farming. The almost continuous stirring of the soil and the fact that vegetables shade the soil very little, as a general rule, allow for a maximum of oxidation of nitrogen and organic matter. In fact, intensive vegetable gardening occasions a condition very akin to bare fallow, or perhaps even worse than fallow—and every one knows what bare fallow will do for the fertility of the soil.

Earliness and quality are of great importance to the vegetable grower, while they are of little consequence to the general farmer. Vegetables to be early and of high quality, must grow rapidly, and to bring this about, there must be present in the soil large amounts of fertility in forms which plants can use. These factors add considerably to the already difficult nature of the fertility problem in vegetable growing.

The up-to-date gardener realizes the importance of rich soil and does not hesitate to fertilize heavily. The amount of fertilizers used and the money invested in them would shock many of our unknown farmer friends. Applications of from twenty to forty tons of manure to the acre annually are not at all uncommon. Besides this, large expenditures are often made for commercial fertilizers in addition. Indeed the statistics of Massachusetts, where market gardening is probably better developed than anywhere in the country, show that during a period of ten years $76 per acre was spent annually for manure on an average by the market gardeners of the state. Such large outlays

EXAMINATIONS HELD FOR FIRST GRADE CERTIFICATES

Two Hundred Teachers Take Tests at High School Building Friday.

With the finishing of the examinations in the sciences Friday at the High school building the bulk of the work of the Morgan County Teachers' institute was brought to a close. About two hundred took the tests for the first grade certificate.

The total attendance at the institute was 293, the largest in recent years, and the sessions as a whole were most successful. The lectures and musical work under Prof. Warren of the State Department of New York were especially appreciated.

Prof. J. M. Pace was called to his home in Macomb one day before the close of the convention by the illness of his wife. The institute will be open today for a few who are taking the examinations for the second grade certificate.

WILL BE EMPLOYED BY SWIFT AND CO.

Raymond Spears, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Spears, of 346 West Court street, who graduated this year from the Jacksonville High school expects to leave Sunday night for Chicago and from there will go to Rockford, Ill., where he has secured a position with the firm of Swift and Co. Mr. Spears will probably start work in the beef department and learn the business from the bottom. His many friends in Jacksonville will wish him well in his new work.

SERVICES AT PISCATAWAY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

At ten o'clock Sunday morning there will be Children's day exercises for the young people of the Sunday school presenting, "The Banner of Love." Frank E. Drury will have charge. At 7:30 there will be Christian Endeavor and preaching by the pastor, the Rev. W. J. Rainey. The subject will be "Friendship in Adversity. An Old Testament Character." All are cordially invited to attend.

THREE GENERATIONS JOIN.

An unusual ceremony took place in connection with the meeting of the Woman's Relief corps yesterday when three generations were admitted into membership into the organization. They included Mrs. Nellie Hamilton and her daughter, Mrs. David Cummings and Mrs. Cummings' daughter, Miss Inez.

SEEKS FOR MISSING
BROTHER IN THIS CITY

JAMES EDMUNDS HAS BEEN AWAY FROM TAYLORVILLE FOR FOUR MONTHS.

Story Reached Relatives That He Had Died in a Local Hospital—Records of Internments Do Not Indicate This Explanation of Man's Disappearance Is Correct—Edmunds Former B. & O. and C. P. & St. L. Employee.

Samuel Edmunds of Taylorville was in the city Friday making an effort to find some trace of his brother, James Edmunds, who has been missing from his home since February 12 of this year.

James Edmunds was for some years a conductor on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and after leaving the employ of that corporation took a position as brakeman for the C. P. & St. L., and resided in Springfield, his run being between the capital city and Peoria. He left the C. P. & St. L. on February 1st of this year and moved to Taylorville where he remained until February 12, and on that latter date left home in search of work. Since then he has not been heard from by his relatives.

It was in Springfield just two days ago that Samuel Edmunds heard a story told by railroad men that brought him to this city in the hope of finding some trace of his lost brother. The story told by the railroad men was that the brother had lost his mind while in Arkansas and was brought to Springfield and later to the State Hospital here.

The story told by the railroad men also set forth that the missing man had died in this city about six weeks ago.

Mr. Edmunds visited the State Hospital yesterday, but there was nothing on the records at the institution to show that the brother had been a patient there. Thinking that the missing man might have taken an assumed name, Mr. Edmunds furnished a description of him by which he could be easily identified, but even this proved of no avail. He also visited Our Savior's and Passavant hospitals, but could find nothing there that would show that his brother had been cared for at either place.

He then visited the local undertaking establishments and it was thought that the man who was found dead on the Burlington railroad tracks north of Concord a short time ago, might have been the brother, but the descriptions did not correspond and this theory was abandoned. No trace could be found at any of the undertaking establishments.

Mr. Edmunds stated that his brother was 45 years of age, 5 feet 11 and one-half inches tall, weighed about 210 pounds, his index finger of the right hand was cut off at the first joint and that he had two scars on his forehead and two on his left wrist, caused by a shotgun explosion. The missing man has a wife and four children residing in Taylorville and the relatives are making every effort to locate him.

This is the time when Knoles' summer suits are comfortable.

REBEKAH LODGE NO. 13 NOMINATES OFFICERS

At a regular meeting of Jacksonville Rebekah Degree Lodge No. 13 in the I. O. O. F. Temple on East State street Friday evening the following officers were placed in nomination:

For Noble Grand—Cora Pine.

For Vice Grand—Miss Fern Haigh and Miss Della Phillips.

For recording secretary—Miss Grace McCarty.

After the business a program of readings and music was given. Arthur Cobb, the chairman, made an address after which a chorus of the older members sang "We're Tending Tonight." Instrumental music was furnished by George Siegfried and J. W. Bowen gave a reading. After a chorus number "Marching Through Georgia," there followed a dialogue by Mrs. Robinson and George Siegfried. "Old Black Joe," "Three Blind Mice" and "Nellie Grey" were additional chorus numbers.

After the program refreshments were served. Mrs. Mary Wyatt was chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment and Asa Robinson acted as chorus leader.

GIVES REPORT OF W. R. C. STATE CONVENTION, HELD IN MATTOON

Mrs. Naomi Whorton Reads Paper on Proceedings of Woman's Relief Corps Gathering at Regular Meeting of Jacksonville Organization.

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps held Friday afternoon in the G. A. R. hall on West Morgan street, Mrs. Naomi Whorton gave her report of the W. R. C. convention, department of Illinois, which took place in Mattoon June 3, 4 and 5. There were over five hundred delegates in attendance at this convention. Mrs. Mary F. Taylor of this city, wife of C. Riggs Taylor, was elected by acclamation to the position of department chaplain.

A spectacular feature of the convention time was the parade, which was held Thursday afternoon. The pageant contained many carriages, autos and floats handsomely decorated and was headed by Governor Dunne with a body guard. One thousand school children carrying flags took part in the parade.

Would Not Alter Flag.
As voiced by one of the principal speakers the convention protested strongly against a proposed change in the form of the national flag. "In the early part of the year 1914 it was brought to notice that a change was contemplated in the form and symmetry of the flag. We advised the general corps of the matter, protesting against any change whatever, the result being that thousands of names have been sent to the congressmen of Illinois with this object in view. Illinois gave up thousands of her true, loyal men to save that flag from disgrace and the Woman's Relief Corps will never stand idly by and see it desecrated."

MISS EMMA THORNBORROW TO BE MARRIED TODAY

Will Wed Dr. Charles K. Haynes of Jamestown, New York—Will Take Honeymoon Trip Up the St. Lawrence River.

The wedding of Miss Emma Thornborrow of this city and Dr. Charles K. Haynes will be solemnized today in the Episcopal church of Jamestown, New York. After the wedding Dr. and Mrs. Haynes will take a honeymoon trip up the St. Lawrence river to Quebec and will spend most of the summer at his cottage on Lake Chautauque, New York, after which they will return to Jamestown, N. Y., to reside.

The bride has always made Jacksonville her home. For several years she was a teacher in Brown's Business college and later accepted a position as teacher of shorthand in the Jacksonville High school.

Dr. Haynes is a specialist on the treatment of the eye, ear, nose and throat, and is prominent among the medical fraternity of his home city. Mrs. Agnes Look, a sister of the bride, is also a resident of Jamestown, New York.

CLINIC OPENED SUCCESSFULLY.

The Free-Anti Tuberculosis clinic was opened successfully Friday morning at 10 o'clock with ten patients present for diagnosis. The physicians who assisted were Drs. Grace Dewey, George Stacy, Josephine Milligan, T. O. Hardesty, and H. C. Woltman. Miss Katherine Olmsted, the public health nurse, was well pleased with the manner in which the anti-tuberculosis clinic work has been begun, and hopes that it may be substantially extended. The clinic is located in the Dr. Brown property, 309 West State street.

WAS PUPIL OF DR. COULTER

E. M. Vasconcellos was a pupil in botany of Dr. John M. Coulter, the commencement speaker at Illinois college. Dr. Coulter did not recognize at first his old pupil at Hanover thirty-five years ago, but soon recalled that Mr. Vasconcellos had been a favorite student and had held the reputation of being the prize botanist in Hanover college. Dr. Coulter is now at the University of Chicago.

MERCHANTS WILL ASSEMBLE HERE

ILLINOIS RETAIL DEALERS WILL GATHER MONDAY.

Splendid Program Arranged for Three Days' Convention—Annual Banquet Will Be Wednesday Night in Strawn's Hall—Musical at Woman's College.

The time is rapidly approaching for the Illinois Retail Merchants' convention, which meets in this city beginning Monday and lasting until Thursday. This convention represents the great body of retail merchants from all over this state.

Owing to the central location of Jacksonville and the extensive publicity given the coming event by the press and the local committee, this year's convention should be one of the most successful ever held. A great many reservations have already been made at the hotels, and it is expected that individuals will be asked to throw open their homes. People having rooms to rent should notify any of the hotels.

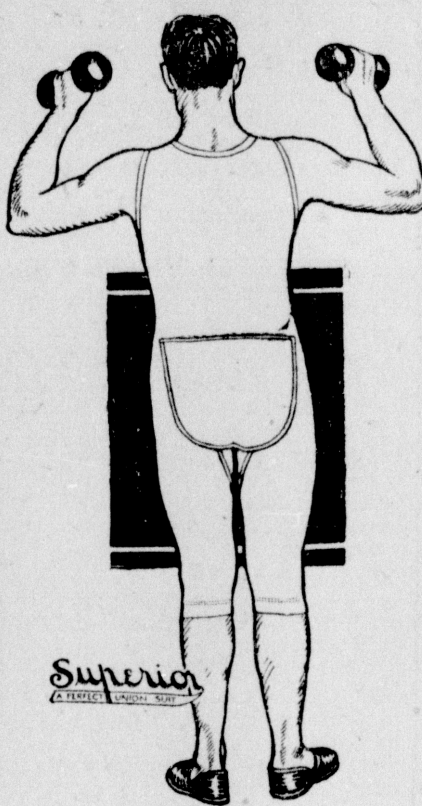

A Good Program Provided.
Diverging somewhat from previous customs, the program provides for more informal discussion instead of long and tiresome addresses. Each day beginning Tuesday is full of interesting subjects which should be taken advantage of by the merchants of Jacksonville. They are cordially invited to attend and to get acquainted with the many visiting retailers.

Entertainment Will Be Good.
Especially have the local committees been fortunate in the good entertainment which they can offer to the visitors. At four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, under the charge of Mr. J. S. Hackett, an automobile trip will be made over the city, including a visit to J. Capps & Sons woolen mills. On Tuesday evening the Messrs. Swarthouts and Mrs. Helen Brown Read will give a high class musicale in Music hall of the Illinois Woman's college.

Annual Banquet.
On Wednesday at 7 o'clock preparations have been made for 250 men to sit down at the annual banquet which will be held in Strawn's hall. Mr. J. J. Reeve, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will act as toastmaster and Mr. Francis T. Simmons, the head of a large glove importing house of Chicago, and Mr. George E. Green of the Shredded Wheat Biscuit Co. will be the principal speakers. An eight-piece orchestra under the leadership of Mr. C. C. Jeffries, will provide the music. A splendid menu will be served. Any local business man may attend, plates being $1 apiece.
